Brooklynn Devine is a beautiful 20 year old who was good at keeping secrets. She had spent the last 6 years keeping something concealed without anyone being the wiser. Despite the turmoil she had been dealing with in the past, she thought things were looking up for her. Her most recent secret was her lover, Santana Valentino, 10 years her senior, who she knew her parents wouldn't approve of. As her past bleeds into her present she is pushed to drastic measures, dragging Santana along for the ride. Now, it seems, she may have to add murder to her lockbox of secrets. Santana fights to protect her at all cost, as Brooklynn fights with the demons that haunt her. Brooklynn's family has more questions making it harder for her to hold on to the bombshell that will destroy what is left of her family. Will she be able to continue to keep these things under wraps, or will, as the saying goes, everything that's done in the dark comes to the light?

Crime is alive and well in Brooklyn. Puerto Rican private detective Ramon Lull Lopez does his bit to reduce the crime rate, and find a modicum of justice for the people living in the warrens of crime in the underbelly of Brooklyn. To do this he goes against the Maffia, Black Muslims, rogue cops, the Mossad, a serial killer, voodoo followers, bank thieves, and a slightly crazy little old lady. He does all of this by maintaining a philosophical, cool, laid back attitude.

All Alone I'm falling I'm brawling to survive I'm calling but they're ignoring to help save my life Desperately out of strife I scream I've fallen and I can't get up Discouraged and stuck up I try doing it on my own That's why I'm falling all alone I'm perspiring I'm trying to finish this race It's tiring I feel like retiring but I keep my pace With sweat on my face I spit on the ground On this track I go around Breathing heavy I raise my tone Why oh God must I run all alone Keep your lives free From the love of money And be content With what you

Accustomed to having the world at her feet, she knows no limits to getting it. For Sincere, the game was meant to be played by his own rules, ensuring his chances at victory, but playing this game of life leaves no time for love, even when the love is coming from the lady who can sit him on the throne of the streets. Rose Frampton is beginning a new life. She's left her family in South Carolina to live with her handsome and wealthy husband in Brooklyn, New York—a move that is both scary and exciting. As mistress of the large Victorian estate on Dorchester Road, she must learn to make decisions, establish her independence, and run an efficient household. These tasks are difficult enough without the added complication of barely knowing her husband. As romance blossoms and Rose begins to find her place, she discovers that strength of character does not come easily—but is essential for happiness. Writing in diary form, Ann Rinaldi paints a sensual picture of time and place—and gives readers an intimate glimpse into the heart of a child as she becomes a woman. "Rinaldi describes the teen's first year of marriage with grace, tact, and sensitivity." —School Library Journal "Fans of romance will be swept up in the subtleties of her courtship by Rene, and readers will likely identify with Rose as she balances the natural impulses of a teenager with her new role as mistress of the house." —Publishers Weekly A New York Public Library Book for the Teen Age
