Burning Man (Gideon and Sirius, #1) by Alan Russell

Burning Man is simply not quite as good. Russell has a great sense of humor and obviously the protagonist is personal. He writes in the style of film noir detective novels and the pace is quick. But, parts of this drag and do not connect well.

Both Sirius and Gideon are badly burned, but both go on to become the protagonists of what will -- I hope - become a new police procedural series for Alan Russell. Burning Man is one of those "just five minutes more" books you can't find a place to stop listening.

Burning Man Quotes by Alan Russell - Goodreads

2018 seems to be my year of reading mysteries that have detectives with canine partners. Most of these books have been excellent reads, and Burning Man continues the trend. Reminiscent of Michael Connelly, Alan Russell's first Gideon and Sirius mystery makes the setting one of the strongest characters in the book.

Alan Russell (Author of Guardians of the Night)

2nd by Alan Russell, but NOT the last I'll read! Didn't go in any sort of order, first listened to Guardians of the Night, and just finished Burning Man... can't wait to get all in the series. I love Russell's writing and wit; and couldn't have gotten a better narrator the Jeff Cummings to bring the story and that quit wit to the listener.

The novel that set the stage for his modern classic, The Satanic Verses, Shame is Salman Rushdie's phantasmagoric epic of an unnamed country that is "not quite Pakistan." In this dazzling tale of an ongoing duel between the families of two men—one a celebrated wager of war, the other a debauched lover of pleasure—Rushdie brilliantly portrays a world caught between honor and humiliation—"shamelessness, shame: the roots of violence." Shame is an astonishing story that grows more timely by the day.
