Obituary: Eric Wolf | The Independent
Eric Robert Wolf, Austrian-born anthropologist and historian (born Feb. 1, 1923, Vienna, Austria; died March 6/7, 1999, Irvington, N.Y.), studied historical trends across civilizations and argued that individual cultures must be viewed in the context of global socioeconomic systems. His best-known book, Europe and the People Without History (1982), is a comparison of the effects of European expansion on indigenous peoples of Africa, the Americas, and the Far East.

'The intention of this work is to show that European expansion not only transformed the historical trajectory of non-European societies but also reconstituted the historical accounts of these societies before European intervention. It asserts that anthropology must pay more attention to history.' (AMAZON)
